Elena Warren

Born and raised in Russia, I graduated from the Architecture Academy in Volgograd, Russia in 1982 with a Master of Arts degree. After two years working as an architect, I began to study fashion design. In 1986 I attended the Moscow School of Fashion Industry in order to acquire practical grounding for my theoretical studies and I received a degree in Fashion Design. I have been working as a designer for over 25 years.

In 2003 I moved to the U.S.A.

At present I live in Denver, Colorado. In 2007 when I began studying jewelry design and metal smith at Arapahoe Community College, Littleton, Colorado I found myself under a magic spell of precious stones and metals that changed my life irrevocably. What started as a fresh and fun experience soon turned out to be my new and beloved career. Generally design is my life. I am especially excited about jewelry design because I feel an amazing influence of architecture when creating modern forms in silver.

My long experience in fashion design has been now released to express my personal unique style in jewelry where shapes and texture flow into one another creating harmony and beauty.

I participated in:

- * Annual exhibition in the Colorado Gallery of Art, Littleton, 2008, 2009 and 2011.
- * Art show "Lines into Shapes" in the Art Center of Estes Park, 2009.
- * Colorado Art Educators Conference exhibition in Breckenridge, Co. Fall 2010.
- * The Denver Art Museum Gift Store, 100 W. 14th Ave Pkwy, Denver Co 80204
